President's Corner

By: Kelly Pope

Mother's Day is in May. For many of us, it is a day where we celebrate with our children, or with our mothers and (if we're lucky) our grandmothers. Perhaps it is a day we think about and honor the women who are no longer in our lives. But this year, for some families coming to the United States seeking asylum, May was not a time of celebration. This month in honor of Mother's Day in May and Father's Day in June, I am going to talk to you about our government separating children from their parents at the border, because I agree with Stephen Colbert that this is a story everyone should be talking about. Just thinking about it makes my heart ache. Separating children from their parents at the border is cruel and inhuman, and we cannot stop it from happening if we don't acknowledge it.

On April 6, 2018, Attorney General Jeff Sessions announced a new "zero-tolerance policy" for offenses under 8 U.S.C. § 1325(a), which prohibits both attempted illegal entry and illegal entry into the United States by any person not a citizen or national of the United States. This new policy directs each U.S. Attorney's Office along the Southwest Border of the United States to adopt a policy to prosecute all

Department of Homeland Security referrals of section 1325(a) violations. The new so-called zero-tolerance policy means that all adults caught crossing the border illegally are supposed to be referred for criminal prosecution, rather than civil deportation proceedings. Adults referred for criminal prosecution in this way are sent to a federal jail, but any children traveling with them across the border cannot be sent to federal jail. The end result is that children caught crossing the border with their parents are being separated from their parents, and referred to the Office of Refugee Resettlement while their parents are sent to jail. It has been widely reported that between April 19 and May 31 of this year, 1,995 children were separated from 1,940 adults pursuant to this policy.

The American Academy of Pediatrics has come out strongly against separating children from their parents at the border.

2018 Career Retention Advancement and Retention Committee Update

By: Kim Buchholz

The Career Advancement and Retention Committee ("CAR Committee") is in full swing this year for Women Lawyers of Sacramento. The CAR Committee's primary goals are to help women advance their careers, achieve their goals and keep women excited about, and committed to, the practice of law.

With these goals in mind, CAR and Judicial and Other Appointments hosted a wonderful panel of speakers at the McGeorge School of Law in March, titled "The Path to Appointments." Our speakers included Mona Pasquil, Appointment Secretary for Governor Brown; Florence Evans, Clerk for the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors; Jia Wang-Connelly, Commissioner at the City of Sacramento Planning and Design Commission; and Rachael O'Brien, Assistant Secretary of the CA Dept. of Food and Agriculture. This event was both inspiring and informative!

In May, the CAR Committee hosted Tami Hackbarth, who presented "Self-Care 101 for Professional Women," a Brown-Bag Lunch held at Lewis Brisbois. Tami taught some very useful meditation and self-care techniques during this Brown-Bag.

This fall, CAR will host the 6th Annual Speed Networking Event. A room full of women attorneys and law students will build connections and share laughs in a fun and relaxed setting. Stay tuned for details!

Dates, times, and locations for all of CAR's events will be emailed and announced in WLS Newsletters and on the official Facebook page throughout the year so please be sure to keep an eye out.

On behalf of Kim, Monica, Kristine and Melissa, the CAR Committee looks forward to seeing you at our upcoming Speed Networking Event!

Colleen Kraft, President of the American Academy of Pediatrics, has stated: "Separating children from their parents contradicts everything we stand for as pediatricians – protecting and promoting children's health. In fact, highly stressful experiences, like family separation, can cause irreparable harm, disrupting a child's brain architecture and affecting his or her short- and long-term health. This type of prolonged exposure to serious stress - known as toxic stress - can carry lifelong consequences for children."

Among its principles, Women Lawyers of Sacramento strives to eliminate all forms of bias, discrimination, and harassment, including all forms of violence against

New Member Spotlight: Ariana Van Alstine

By: Corrie Manning

Meet Ariana Van Alstine – a senior associate with Kennaday Leavitt & Owensby. Ariana specializes in regulatory compliance and licensing for cannabis and healthcare clients, including business formation and defending regulatory enforcement actions. She also represents healthcare and cannabis companies in business disputes in state and federal court, as well as in arbitration.

Ariana was so enthusiastic about joining WLS that she agreed to serve as a Vice-Chair of the Membership Committee as soon as she became a member. Ariana has already proven to be a tremendous asset to WLS. We asked her a few questions so we can all get to know her better!

What made you want to become a lawyer?

I was a paralegal in New York from 2007 through 2010. During that time, I worked on a case that concerned massive financial crimes and involved potentially multi-billion dollar liability. The subject matter was challenging and engaging, and my attorney mentors were incredibly intelligent and interesting. As I reviewed files and learned about the case, I became engrossed in the process. I knew I had found a profession that would always be intellectually challenging, and despite all the warnings, that it would be my future.

How did you end up in your current areas of practice?

Luck and opportunity. I was hired at my present firm to work in regulatory compliance and licensing.

Shortly after Proposition 64 passed, a friend suggested I work with cannabis companies. I presented the opportunity to the firm and we arranged a meeting with a potential client. Then I began studying the Proposition and medical cannabis laws, consuming as much information as I could. Over the next year, I grew my knowledge and client base, and eventually, cannabis became most of my practice.

What do you enjoy most about your current areas of practice?

Learning about the entrepreneurial story is my favorite part of working with cannabis businesses. We are at such a pivotal moment in California, and the people working in the industry come from unique and diverse backgrounds, each bringing personal stories and fascinating skillsets. I feel lucky to work in this explosion of innovation.

Why did you join WLS?

As a law student, I was introduced to WLS through their great events. After several years of practice, I realized the immense value in supporting other female attorneys and strengthening our Sacramento community. I am grateful for the opportunities that I have had, and want to support and encourage other women in their careers as well.

What have you enjoyed most so far about being a member of WLS?

WLS events and luncheons are a wonderful way to connect with other attorneys, while learning and/or giving back to our local community.
